Projects

NestTrade is a web-based real estate application developed to facilitate the buying and selling of homes. The system allows users to view and manage property listings with detailed information such as location, price, square footage, number of rooms, and available facilities. The project focuses on providing a user-friendly interface with simple navigation and structured data handling. It supports basic property management operations and is designed with scalability and maintainability in mind, addressing real-world requirements of a digital property management platform.
